Things I Couldn't Cover

The majority things that I couldn't cover were due to the fact that I had a really hard time getting musl printf to work. I am pretty new to compiling and referencing libraries and what not so I wanted to try to take the time to get it working on my own. This task turned out to be pretty hard and I ended up only getting it to work the night before. So for example, I was only able to cover %d, %s and %ll. I was in the process of working on %llu but couldn't get that to work in time. So any other of the easy ones like char, unsigned char, short, unsigned short, etc. I would have easily been able to cover those but I didn't have the time. The way my code is constructed could have made it extremely easily to hit those other cases.